Article 67/d
Case Review

1. The Constitutional Court shall examine the merits of claims of constitutional nature and claims dealing with the exercise of the right to vote by citizens who have taken part in the referendum, the validity of the referendum process and the process of announcing the outcome of the referendum.
2. Where the Constitutional Court considers the recount of votes as necessary, it shall order the Central Election Commission to conduct such a procedure.
3. After conducting the procedure in accordance with paragraph 2 of this Article, the Central Election Commission shall notify the Constitutional Court on the outcome.

Article 67/dh
Constitutional Court Decision Making

The Constitutional Court, after the judicial review, shall decide to:

- a) Reject the complaint and uphold the final result of the referendum;
- b) Repeal the decision of the Central Election Commission and declare the law as unchanged or repealed;
- c) Repeal the decision of the Central Election Commission and declare the issue or draft law of special importance as adopted or not adopted;
- ç) Repeat the referendum.

Procedures to review the constitutionality of the laws required by courts

Article 68
Recourse to the Constitutional Court

1. When a court or the respective judge, during the trial and at any time considers ex officio or through the request of either party, that a certain law is unconstitutional and, if there is a direct link between the law and the solution of the case at hand, that particular law is not implemented and the judge shall decide to suspend the further examination of the case and deliver the file to the Constitutional Court, which on its side should express itself about the constitutionality of the said law.

2. The decision of the court or of the respective judge should define the provisions of the law they consider incompatible with the said norms or other principles of the Constitution that the law has not observed or has violated, as well as the reasons for which the abrogation has been requested.

Article 69

Case Review

1. When the Constitutional Court concludes that the presented file is not complete and conform Article 68 of this law, it delivers it back to the original court. The latter should complete the file within one month from the date it has received the file.

2. When the respective file is found complete and conform Article 68, the Constitutional Court shall set the date of the hearing to review the case, notifying the court and other interested entities.

Article 70

Constitutional Court Decision Making

1. The Constitutional Court, when reviewing the cases provided under Article 68 and 69 of this Law, and because of reasons related to the constitutionality of a concrete law, shall publish the fact that such an issue is under adjudication.

2. Where the case referred to by the High Court is admitted for adjudication in plenary hearing, the other courts shall suspend pending cases for which the law contested before the Constitutional Court applies.

3. In case the Constitutional Court decides to abrogate a certain law as unconstitutional, the respective decision is announced to the Assembly of Albania and the Council of Ministers.

Procedure to review individual constitutional complaint

Article 71

The Right to Exercise Individual Constitutional Complaint

1. Every individual, natural or legal person, being the subject of private and public law, when being a party in a legal process or the holder of fundamental rights and freedoms provided for in the Constitution, is entitled to lodge a complaint before the Constitutional Court against any act that violates his rights and freedoms provided for in the Constitution, under the criteria provided in Article 71/a of this Law.

2. In specific cases, subject to the individual constitutional complaint can also be a law or a normative act, as provided by Article 49 paragraph 3 of this Law.

3. The Constitutional Court shall conclusively examine the appeals against decisions of the High Judicial Council and High Prosecutorial Council, under Article 140 paragraph 4 and Article 148/d of the Constitution.

Article 71/a
Criteria to Exercise Individual Constitutional Complaint

The individual constitutional complaint shall be reviewed by the Constitutional Court when:

- a) The applicant has exhausted all effective legal remedies before addressing the Constitutional Court or when the domestic legal framework does not provide for effective legal remedies available.
- b) The application is submitted within the 4-month period of finding an infringement;
- c) The negative consequences are direct and real to the applicant;
- ç) The examination of the case by the Constitutional Court could restore the infringed rights of the individual.

2. In addition to the criteria envisaged in paragraph 1 of this Article, arrangements provided for in this law on preliminary examination, shall apply.

Article 71/b
Review by the Constitutional Court

1. The Constitutional Court shall examine whether the act, partially or totally, is in conformity with the Constitution and ratified international agreements. The Constitutional Court may also rule on other provisions that are not the subject of the application, if it deems that they are connected to the issue under review.

2. When the Constitutional Court reviews the constitutionality of an act and concludes that it is based on an unconstitutional law or normative act, the Court shall simultaneously decide to also repeal the law or the normative act.

3. In cases where paragraph 2 of this Article is applicable, the effects of the Constitutional Court decision shall not extend to the acts which no longer have effects or to judicial decisions that have become final.

4. The Constitutional Court shall consider the application within a reasonable time.

Article 71/c
Obligations Arising from Decision Making in International Courts

1. For purposes of this law, international courts are the courts whose jurisdiction extends to the Albanian State, because of obligations arising from ratified international agreements.

2. If an international court finds out that the Republic of Albania has violated the obligation arising from an international agreement and, therefore, the fundamental rights and freedoms of a natural or legal person have been violated through a law or normative act, the Constitutional Court, upon request, may repeal the law or the normative act, if it finds that there is no other effective legal remedy to restore the rights violated.

3. If the Constitutional Court has previously ruled on a matter, which has been tried by an international court and the latter has concluded that fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual have been violated because of the decision of the Constitutional Court, the subject infringed upon, in whose favour the international court has ruled, shall be entitled to address the Constitutional Court with a request to reopen the judicial process.

4. The request for reopening the process shall be filed to the Constitutional Court within 4 months of the entry into force of the decision of the international court. It must contain a summary of the international court's decision, highlights of findings and concrete research made by that court. The applicant must expressly request the reopening of the process and a repeal of the act.

5. The request for reopening the process shall not be accepted if:

- a) Consequences of violation of fundamental rights and freedoms no longer exist;
- b) The international court has given an indemnity without associating it with a reopening of the process (just satisfaction);
- c) The violation has been avoided by a new legal arrangement or other forms.

6. When the Constitutional Court accepts the request, it shall decide on:

- a) The repeal of its previous decision and admissibility of the application.
- b) The repeal of its previous decision and simultaneously the repeal of the act that has violated fundamental rights and freedoms of the applicant and the obligation of the competent authority to issue a new act or the obligation of the authority not to act, as appropriate.

Article 71/ç

The Review of Applications on the Undue Prolongation of the Process before the Constitutional Court

1. Anyone, who is a party to a process that takes place before the Constitutional Court or a party to a judicial process suspended as a consequence of an incidental check or of the verification of the constitutionality of the law initiated by other entities provided for in Article 134 of the Constitution, who claims that the trial has been conducted beyond a reasonable time, has the right to demand due compensation from the Constitutional Court, if determined that his rights and freedoms provided for by the Constitution have been violated from the undue prolongation of the process.

2. In any case, regardless of the consequences, the applicant cannot apply without passing at least one year from commencement of the case review.

3. In any case, the Constitutional Court shall assess the nature of the process and of the case, as well as the circumstances that have influenced the decision-making process of the Constitutional Court. It shall decide on the compensation amount by reference to consequences suffered by the applicant because of the undue prolongation of the process before this court.

4. If the Constitutional Court concludes that the trial has been extended beyond the deadline without reasonable cause, then, it shall compensate the applicant up to the extent of 100,000 ALL, for each year of delay.

Article 71/d

The Review of Applications in accordance with Article 179/1 of the Constitution

1. The Constitutional Court, at the request of not less than 1/5 of members of the Assembly, shall review cases provided for in Article 179/1 of the Constitution.

2. In this case, the Constitutional Court shall examine whether it has to do with a situation where bodies, tasked by the Constitution or the law to ascertain the ending or invalidity of the mandate or the dismissal from office of an elected, appointed official or a senior public functionary, fail to act.

3. At the end of the case review, the Constitutional Court shall decide to:

a) Reject the application;

b) Confirm the ending or invalidity of the mandate or the dismissal from office of the senior public official.

CHAPTER VIII DECISIONS OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL COURT

Article 72

Decision making and proclamation of decision

1. Deliberations and voting for the decision are not public.
2. The Constitutional Court decisions are made by majority vote of all the judges thereof. Abstention is impermissible.
3. The decision is signed by all the judges present at the hearing.
4. Parties in the process are notified about the proclamation of the decision. Their absence does not hinder the proclamation of the decision.
5. The decision is proclaimed on the name of the Republic of Albania.”
6. The Constitutional Court decision shall be reasoned. In special cases dealing with matters of public importance, the Constitutional Court may announce ordering provisions immediately after the decision has been made and announce the reasoned decision within five days. In this case, the decision shall enter into force on the day of its announcement together with the reasoning, unless the Court decides otherwise.
7. The decision of the Constitutional Court has general binding force and it is final.
8. The judge expressing a dissenting opinion enjoys the right to reason his opinion and thus it is attached to and published together with the court decision.
9. Copies of the decision are liable to be handed to the involved parties, if thus requested by them and upon the respective fee.

Article 73

Adjournment of deliberations and voting

1. If any of the judges participating at the hearing is absent during the deliberations and voting, the Meeting of the Judges shall be cancelled and adjourned to another date.
2. If even after that, the participation of the judge cannot be secured within a reasonable period, the Court ultimately decides the case, when the absolute majority of its members is formed.
3. In case this majority is not formed and there is a possibility to include in this hearing other judges who have not previously been present at the hearing, the hearing shall be reopened and the case heard from the beginning.
4. Where the majority of five judges is not achieved, the application shall be considered rejected.

Article 74
(repealed)

Article 75
Consistency of decision

A decision of the Constitutional Court, after voting, shall be considered valid and cannot be changed.

Article 76
Legal Effects of Constitutional Court Decisions

1. The Constitutional Court decisions are final and mandatory for execution.
2. The Constitutional Court decision that has repealed a law or a normative act as incompatible with the Constitution or international agreements, as a rule, shall have legal effects from the date of its entry into force, unless otherwise provided by this law.
3. In any case, the Constitutional Court shall define effects of its decision.
4. The Constitutional Court may decide that the decision to repeal an act may produce effects on a date different from the date of its entry into force. In this case, the Assembly or any other institution must make necessary changes within the deadline set by the Constitutional Court decision and in accordance with its reasoning.
5. Where during the review of a case, the Constitutional Court finds out that there is a legal vacuum that has brought negative consequences to fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual, the Constitutional Court, inter alia, shall determine the legislator's obligation to complete the legal framework within a certain deadline.
6. Decisions of courts of all instances, which have been repealed by the Constitutional Court, shall not have legal force from the moment they were made. The case shall be sent for examination to the court, whose decision has been repealed.
7. The decision shall have retroactive effect only against:
 - a) A criminal sentence, even while it is being executed, if it is directly connected with the implementation of the law or normative act that has been repealed;
 - b) Cases being examined by courts, as far as their decisions are not final and irrevocable.
 - c) Unexhausted consequences of the law or normative act that has been repealed.

Article 77
(repealed)

Article 78
Notification of Decision

When deciding on the abrogation of the law or the normative act and the related relationships require legal regulation, the Constitutional Court decision shall be notified to the relevant bodies to take the measures provided for in its decision.

Article 79
(repealed)

Article 80
Accuracy and Completion of Decision

1. The Constitutional Court has the right, within 2 months of the announcement of a decision, upon request, to correct errors in writing, in computation or any obvious inaccuracy allowed in the decision, without changing the substance of the decision.
2. After reviewing these cases, the Constitutional Court shall issue a decision, which shall be published in the Official Gazette.

Article 81
Execution of Decisions

1. The Constitutional Court decisions are mandatory for execution.
2. The execution of Constitutional Court decisions is secured by the Council of Ministers through the respective organs of the state administration.
3. The Constitutional Court, depending on the type of decision and where appropriate, may specify in the ordering provision the body charged with the execution of the decision, as well as the manner of execution, setting concrete deadlines, the relevant manner and procedure of execution.
4. Failure or obstruction of execution of the Constitutional Court decision shall be punishable in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Criminal Code.
